AS Accuracy must be considered the grand Object with Books which are published as a Guide to Travellers, the Proprietors of this Work think it incumbent upon them to state their Authorities for the present Publication. It might perhaps be sufficient to say, that it is brought forward under the Sanction of His Majesty's Postmaster General; but they cannot avail themselves of such an Indulgence without stating the Circumstance which has procured them so liberal a Patronage.

Having had it in Command from the Postmaster General to make a Survey, under the Direction of Mr. Hasker, Surveyor and Superintendant of the Mail Coaches, of the whole of the Mail Coach Routes, and other principal Roads throughout the Kingdom, for official Purposes, amounting in Admeasurement to upwards of Nine Thousand Miles, the Accuracy of which (as required by an Act of Queen Anne, for all Roads measured on Account of the GENERAL POST OFFICE) being attested on the Oaths of the several Surveyors employed, it was deemed to be a Work of such Utility to the Public, that it ought not to be withheld; and it is humbly presumed, that, from the Precision with which it is executed, much Benefit may accrue to the Traveller; as the Distances on those Roads given from actual Admeasurement, are planned from one stationary Object to another, it will enable him to determine beyond Dispute the exact Length of his Stages.

Extensive as this Survey is, yet it was not considered to embrace the whole of those Roads to which the Traveller might wish occasionally to refer; it has therefore occupied much of the Attention of the Proprietors, and they have, with great Industry and Care, selected from the County Surveys such other Roads as appeared to them essential, the Distances of which, although not regulated by their own Survey, and, of course, not calculated from one stationary Mark to another, yet they have every Reason to believe are faithful, as the manuscript Copy, previous to printing, was regularly sent to the Postmasters of all the principal Towns in the Kingdom for Inspection, and to report Errors where any might occur: by which Means the Proprietors have been enabled to authenticate the numerous Seats and Residences which they have inserted in this Work. Through the same Channel they have also received a List of such Inns as supply Post Horses and Carriages, which are added at the End of each Route: this, it is presumed, will greatly contribute to the Convenience of the Traveller, and on many Occasions prove highly advantageous.

To this Work we have prefixed a general Map, on which are exhibited the whole of the Roads described; and although on a small Scale (as being best adapted for folding), it is hoped it will fully answer the Purpose desired; the Mail Coach Roads being distinguished from the others, and the Direct Roads from London being marked differently from those which we have given under the Head of Cross Roads.

It being judged preferable to give the Measurement from one Standard only, we have chosen the GENERAL POST OFFICE for that Purpose. From this Spot we have directed the whole of our Measurement on the Direct Roads, not only because we have made so very extensive a Survey from that Point, but because it is the most central in the Metropolis.

And having it in our Power to be more minute in our Distances than is usual in Books of this Sort; we have given the fractional Parts in Furlongs, thereby determining the Reckoning so near as an Eighth instead of a Quarter of a Mile, which has been the Rule hitherto adopted. But relying on the Precision with which the Work has been executed, we deemed it proper to be thus particular, as we can take upon us to vouch, on the Oaths of the Surveyors employed (whose Names we subjoin), that all those Routes which we have headed G. P. O. (which is intended as a distinctive Mark for those Direct Roads which we have measured) may be depended on in that exact Degree in which we have described them; and although we do not so firmly vouch for those which we have not actually surveyed, we again add our Reliance that they are correct.

Those Roads which we give under the Head of Cross Roads we have distinguished, where measured, by reckoning the Distances from fixed Objects, in the Manner adopted for the Direct Roads, but those which were not measured we have not been able to describe with that Precision. But we presume, from that strict Attention which has been given to the Accuracy of this Work, as well as that liberal Allowance which is generally shown to Publications of this Nature, that the Errors which may occur will be thought favourably of, as from adventitious Circumstances some must occasionally happen.

Surveyors employed in measuring the Roads described in this Work :

GEORGE GRETTON, Liverpool.
 JOHN BURTON, Lancaster.
 JOSEPH SINGER, Littleton, Devon.
 L. HERBERT, Strand.

The Measurements, which are taken in Miles and Furlongs, are arranged in Columns, the first and second giving the Distance from one City, Town, or Village, to the next; the third and fourth, the Number of Miles from the Commencement of the Road.

Example.—Page 1.

G. P. O. to Shooter's Hill	M	F	M	F
From Shooter's Hill to Welling	—	—	8	5
————— Crayford	2	1	10	6
————— Dartford— Bull Inn	1	7	13	3
	1	7	15	2

Thus you observe the Distance is given for Shooter's Hill in the third and fourth Columns, eight Miles five Furlongs; and in the Continuation of the Road to Dartford you find the Measurement to that Place from London to be fifteen Miles and one Quarter.

General Directions for tracing the Roads.

Suppose you want the Road from London to York—look for the Name of that Place in the Index to the Direct Roads from London, and the Figure opposite to it refers to the Page in which is that Part of the Road containing York, though the Description of the Road in which it is situated (being that from London to Edinburgh and Aberdeen) begins in Page 258, and ends in Page 268.

ADVERTISEMENT.

In describing the less Roads branching out from the greater, the last remarkable Place on the great Road, or the Spot where the lesser turns off, is first given, with a Reference to the Place in which you will find the Road so far as to that Place; and afterwards the Branch is continued: as, for Instance, to find the Road from London to Weymouth, the Index refers you for Weymouth to Page 63, where you find it in the following Form, viz.

To Dorchester, p. 36	M	F	123	M	F
Brodeway	4	7	127	7	7
Melcomb Regis	2	5	130	4	4
Weymouth	4	4	131	-	-

By which it appears you are referred to Page 36 for this Road as far as Dorchester (the last remarkable Place on the great Road); thence the Remainder of the Road to Weymouth is given after the above Form in Page 63, as directed by the Index. These References are made use of in order to prevent the numberless Repetitions, which would otherwise unavoidably occur, and thereby swell the Book to an inconvenient Size.

The Index to the Cross Roads, it is conceived, is made sufficiently copious, and will be found so decisive in its Purpose as to need no farther Explanation than what is given at the Beginning of it.

Notice of any Errors or Omissions which may occur in this Work, if remitted to J. CARY, No. 181, Strand, London, will be thankfully received, and carefully attended to in the next Edition.

INDEX TO THE CROSS ROADS.

Note.—Where the Italic Character is used, it implies a complete, uninterrupted Route; and where it is given in the Roman Letter, it signifies it to be Part only of some Route so described in Italics—For Example, see the Route from Hounslow to Ryegate, p. 591. This Road is divided thus—Kingston to Ewell; Kingston to Hounslow; Ewell to Ryegate.—Observe that, in this Instance, as in most others where the Road is subdivided, the Eye, in reading, is directed contrary Ways, or both up and down; namely, upward for Kingston to Hounslow, and downward for Kingston to Ewell, and so for Ewell to Ryegate—conceiving that it was likely the Road might be as much required from Kingston to Hounslow, as from Kingston to Ewell.
